“Being with you wasn’t a dream, it was a prayer.”

“I regret that you met me…your life would have been easier if I hadn’t been in it.”

“Not all feelings can be expressed in the heart so God created restless sleep, shaking hands and tears.”

“My pain a whisper in the void but a scream in my soul.”

“Value your solitude, guard your energy and let your growth speak for itself.”

“Errors are criticized but the struggle behind them is ignored.”

“It’s like I’m stuck in a place that wasn’t made for me.”

“I can spend an entire day alone and still feel perfectly content.”

“I used to think I am an introvert because I liked being alone but in reality I just love being at peace. I’m actually extroverted around people who bring me that peace.”

“My flag isn’t green red or blue. It’s white all I want now is peace whether it’s mental peace or rest in peace.”

“I laugh all the time yet happiness feels distant. I talk too much but never open up about my feelings.

“Hope on life is the pain I feel and the strength that keeps me going.”

“My posts aren’t always my story sometimes I speak for you.”

“I may post all day but my true story is something you’ll never see.”

“I am a dark mystery in verse not for all to unravel.”

“Don’t fear death fear a life never fully lived.”

“People: She doesn’t behave like a Christian… God: I want real hearts not performances.”

Love was my mom sacrificing everything for me even when she had nothing. “Please in your next life don’t be my mother again. Choose happiness for yourself.”

My anger was never toward my parents but toward their words…

Parents: “Having a son is better than having a daughter like you….” Me: “Yet, I’m still living my life for them.”

“That one incident turned me into someone I never thought I’d be.”

“From: Meet me tomorrow at school I have so much to say…To: If you find time we should meet and talk… We’ve all moved on.”
